Vodacom to buy Egypt unit from parent in R40.86bn deal

Vodacom agreed to buy a majority stake in Vodafone Egypt from its UK parent for $2.7 billion (R40.86 billion), expanding the South African carrier's operations into the north of the continent. The Johannesburg-based company, which is more than 60% owned by Vodafone Group, will issue new shares to cover 80% of the cost of acquiring the Egyptian market leader, with the balance to be paid in cash, according to a statement on Wednesday. The deal will allow Vodacom to expand beyond its key markets and present a greater challenge to arch rival MTN, the continent's largest carrier. A key attraction of the Egypt market is that most of the 100 million population don't use traditional banks, allowing Vodacom to roll out its lucrative mobile-money services, Chief Executive Officer Shameel Joosub told reporters. "There are significant opportunities to leverage our financial services platform," he said. "We are not planning to do any more acquisitions of geographical territories – we are looking to grow our financial services around the continent." For Vodafone, it allows the company to proceed with a plan to consolidate African operations under Joosub's leadership. The British carrier had been looking at a potential sale of its majority stake in Vodafone Ghana to its South African partner, people familiar with the matter said earlier this year, though a deal has yet to materialise. Telecom Egypt, the fixed-line incumbent, will remain the minority partner in Vodafone Egypt with a 45% stake. The state-owned company agreed to waive a rule that a mandatory offer be made for its shares in the event of a change in control, Joosub said. Vodacom said the Egypt deal will boost its medium-term operating profit growth into double digits, and expects to announce an update to targets at full-year results next May. Separately, Vodacom announced a deal Wednesday to buy a minority stake in a vehicle housing South African fiber companies Vumatel and Dark Fibre Africa Pty. The majority owner is a unit of Remgro Ltd., billionaire Johann Rupert's investment firm.

GEPF investment portfolio grows 27.5%

The Government Employees Pension Fund (GEPF) has reached a significant milestone in the 25th anniversary of its founding, with the fund's investment portfolio now valued at over R2 trillion. This is revealed in the GEPF's latest financial results for the year ended March 31, 2021, published on Monday. It shows that the fund's investment portfolio has grown 27.5% or by R451 billion for FY2021. The market value of the fund increased to R2.09 trillion in 2021 (2020: R1.59 trillion), "despite the turbulent and unpredictable market conditions during the financial year". Investment market value increased by 27.5% (2020: decline of 11.4%). Net investment income amounted to R483.8 billion (2020: R179.7 billion loss). Member contributions amounted to R82 billion (2020: R80 billion), and total benefits paid were R110.6 billion (2020: R111 billion). The fund believes: "The growth in the value of assets under management (AuM) confirms that the GEPF's investment strategy aimed at achieving long-term growth is successfully contributing to the financial soundness of the fund".

European stocks closed slightly higher on Wednesday as market participants digested a slew of earnings and hotter-than-expected inflation readings from the U.S. The pan-European Stoxx 600 closed up by 0.2% provisionally, with media shares climbing 1.3% to lead the gains while tech shares on the other hand sank 1.3%. German consumer price index (CPI) inflation came in at 4.5% year-on-year in October and 0.5% month-on-month, the federal statistics office said Wednesday. Marks & Spencer shares surged 16.5% after the British retailer posted strong third-quarter earnings.

AMERICAN MARKET COMMENTARY

SELECTED HEADLINES

Stocks retreated Wednesday after October's consumer price reading showing the biggest annual jump in more than 30 years, triggering a spike in bond yields. The yield on the benchmark 10-year Treasury, which had trended lower in recent weeks, jumped by about 11 basis points Wednesday after the CPI reading. As Treasury yields surged, investors dumped high-flying technology stocks and bid up bank stocks. They also sought refuge in gold and bitcoin. The consumer price index jumped 6.2% from a year ago, well above the 5.9% estimate from economists polled by Dow Jones and the largest annual increase since 1990.

ASIAN MARKET COMMENTARY

SELECTED HEADLINES

Asian stocks were mixed Thursday after the hottest U.S. inflation print in three decades hurt Wall Street shares and sparked a jump in Treasury yields amid concern monetary policy will be tightened more quickly. Concerns about a slowdown in China and property sector woes also continue to rattle investors. Quarterly revenue at Tencent Holdings Ltd. rose at the slowest pace since 2004 amid the country's year-long crackdown on its technology sector. Meanwhile, China Evergrande Group looks set to avert default after paying overdue interest on three U.S. dollar bonds.

COMMODITY MARKET COMMENTARY

Gold prices were flat this morning after a surge in U.S. consumer prices drove the metal, seen as an inflation hedge, to a five-month peak in the previous session. Oil prices were steady earlier today after falling in the previous session on concerns rising inflation in the United States, spurred by climbing energy costs, may prompt the government to release more strategic crude stockpiles to drive down prices.

The rand was weaker yesterday, a day after state utility Eskom painted a bleak picture about the country's power outlook. At the close of the day, the rand was trading around R15.44 to the dollar or 2.59% weaker. Eskom, which is currently implementing scheduled electricity cuts because of multiple faults in its coal fleet, said on Tuesday the risk of outages would remain until another 4,000 to 6,000 megawatts of capacity is added to the grid.
