SOUTH AFRICAN MARKETS

SUMMARY

On the Johannesburg Stock Exchange, the leading Top-40 index experienced a 1.7% decrease. Meanwhile, South Africa's manufacturing sector exhibited a positive trend, with a 2.1% year-on-year growth in October, rebounding from a revised 4.1% decline in September, according to data from the statistics agency. However, there was a 0.2% month-on-month dip in factory production for October, following a revised 0.8% decrease in September. The focus of local markets now shifts to the November inflation figures, expected today, which could offer insights into the overall health of the South African economy grappling with issues such as deteriorating rail and port infrastructure and recurrent power outages.

TRUSTCO GROUP HOLDINGS LIMITED - Trading Statement

Trustco, a diversified investment entity based in Windhoek, Namibia, focuses on insurance, education, real estate, mining, commercial banking, and micro-finance. Despite historical exceptional returns, the global economic landscape presents challenges such as a deceleration in growth, inflation and geopolitical complexities. Namibia's economic outlook is cautiously optimistic, with a predicted growth rate of 2.8% in 2023, influenced by inflation rates, monetary measures, and external factors. Portfolio valuations declined due to increased discount rates, but a potential reduction in central bank rates may reverse this trend. Amendments to Loan-to-Value ratios in real estate aim to stimulate the property market. Trustco's mining portfolio shows promising revenue growth, while commercial banking faces challenges from interest rate hikes and inflation. The education portfolio remains resilient, but the insurance portfolio experiences a decline in valuation. The trading statement for 2023 anticipates a decrease in Net Asset Value per share and Basic and Headline loss per share compared to the previous year. The financial information in the statement is not audited.

AMERICAN MARKET COMMENTARY

SUMMARY

U.S. stocks extended their upward trajectory for the fourth consecutive session on Tuesday as investors on Wall Street examined the latest inflation figures for insights into the potential timing of the Federal Reserve's monetary policy adjustments. The consumer price index (CPI) showed a 3.1% year-over-year increase in November and a 0.1% month-over-month rise, meeting economists' expectations of a 3.1% annual uptick. Excluding food and energy, inflation aligned with economists' forecasts. Attention is now focused on the upcoming Federal Reserve policy announcement, scheduled for later today, with market expectations leaning towards the anticipation that the central bank will maintain steady interest rates.

In the Asia-Pacific region, markets exhibited a mixed trend as investors analysed Japan's quarterly Tankan survey. The Bank of Japan's survey revealed better-than-expected improvement in business sentiment among large manufacturers. On the flip side, South Korea experienced a rise in its unemployment rate to 2.8%, the highest since July, based on government data. This marked an increase from the 2.5% recorded in October. Additionally, South Korea's economy added fewer jobs in November, totalling around 277,000, compared to the previous month's addition of 346,000 jobs.

COMMODITY MARKETS

SUMMARY

Gold prices remained within a limited range this morning as investors exercised caution, avoiding significant commitments ahead of the U.S. Federal Reserve's decision on interest rates and policy guidance later in the day. In Asian trade, oil prices stabilized after experiencing a drop of over 3%, reaching six-month lows in the previous session due to concerns related to oversupply and weakening demand. Meanwhile, copper prices declined earlier today following China's agenda-setting meeting, which fell short of investors' expectations and cast a shadow on the demand outlook from the world's leading consumer of the metal.
